Student Membership in the Appraisal Institute of Canada

Student Membership is the Start...

The first step on the path to achieving one of the professional designations granted by the Appraisal Institute of Canada (AIC) is enrollment in the Institute as a Student Member.

When you become a student member of AIC, you gain access to a wealth of resources and benefits. Student membership was designed to assist you in planning a challenging career in a multidisciplinary profession where opportunities are limited only by your imagination and ambition.

Student members of AIC may be individuals who are working in the real property sector and pursuing a course of studies leading to candidacy for one of AIC's prestigious designations. In this capacity, they may perform a variety of technical support functions in the area of real property valuation and related work as employees. For example a student may be assigned tasks such as research and data collection under the supervision of a designated member of the Institute and as prescribed by the AIC Standards. Student members may not inspect properties unsupervised.

Working student members are most often employees of appraisal firms, lending institutions, real estate brokerages or agencies, and others whose work interrelates with the appraisal profession – government agencies, law firms, insurance companies, to name a few.

The AIC distance learning program is designed to encourage student members to work full-time in a valuation or real property related position, while concurrently completing their AIC program of studies.

AIC also welcomes student members who are enrolled in post-secondary programs who are considering entering the appraisal profession.

Benefits of Student Membership

- Free Student Membership
- Opportunities for networking and dialogue with Canada's leading valuation professionals.
- Subscriptions to informative AIC publications.
- Access to the AIC members only website
- Members' registration privileges at AIC conferences, and continuing education programs
- Eligibility to participate in AIC affinity programs

Note: Students are NOT eligible to participate in the Institute's Professional Liability Insurance program.

Progress to Candidate Membership

Admission to candidacy is open to those individuals who have completed two (2) years of accredited post-secondary education (college, CÉGEP, or university) OR a university degree. In addition, individuals must complete the following education requirements before submitting their Application for Candidate Membership: BUSI 330 — Foundations of Real Estate Appraisal (or equivalent); and the AIC 101 - Introduction to the Appraisal Profession (webinar). Upon admission to the Institute, candidates must complete the AIC's mandatory Professional Practice Seminar within 12 months of their admission date, and once every two years after completion of the first seminar. Upon successful completion of all candidacy requirements for your designation of choice, you will be ready to launch your career as a designated member of the Appraisal Institute of Canada. AIC designations are nationally recognized hallmarks of quality.

AIC Designation Options

Accredited Appraiser Canadian Institute, Professional Appraiser (AACI, P. App)

The AACI, P.App designation is granted to individuals who, in addition to holding a degree from a recognized university, have completed the AACI program of studies and fulfilled all the professional requirements of the Institute. These members are qualified to offer valuation and consulting services and expertise for all types of real property.

Canadian Residential Appraiser (CRA)

The CRA designation is granted to individuals who, in addition to holding a degree from a recognized university, have completed the CRA program of studies and fulfilled all the professional requirements of the Institute. They are qualified to offer valuation, consulting services and expertise for individual, undeveloped residential dwelling sites and dwellings containing not more than four self-contained family housing units.
